

Organic whole black caraway seeds 1kg

The dried black seeds of black caraway are 2-3 mm long and very aromatic. The slightly sharp taste is reminiscent of a mixture of nuts, thyme with a hint of eucalyptus and pepper. Black caraway is often used in baked goods such as flatbread and in oriental cuisine. It can also be pressed into an intense and flavourful oil. Did you know that black caraway is not botanically related to either caraway or cumin? It belongs to the family of buttercup plants and its aromatic seeds mature in a protective shell.
